

Sustainability Certifications - Recent developments in standards and certification

Dr. Enrico Miceli – Product Manager Compostability

Recent political decisions around the globe make it necessary for sustainable materials, products and packaging to show conformity with the respective standards applying. Additionally, some of these standards were amended with increasing pass/fail criteria; some of them have been recently published.

DIN CERTCO will give an overview on new regulations and standard developments in the EU and abroad. Additionally, we will introduce new certification systems to cover the market needs for the industry and stakeholders throughout the value chain.
